Dear Synopsys:

Congratulations to all the people at Synopsys on your twentieth anniversary. Besides having great products, Synopsys has some powerful cultural attributes that I have noticed as a customer over many years.

In many ways, big and small, Synopsys employees consistently demonstrate that they value our business. This ranges from being flexible on software license deals to making the extra effort to hand-deliver a quotation. These big and small gestures communicate that Synopsys values our business, which makes us want to do business with Synopsys.

I also appreciate that Synopsys people make the effort to understand our business in some level of detail, beyond just our development tools requirements. This enables Synopsys to be more creative in finding solutions to meet our priorities, which you have done on many occasions.

Besides being a technology leader, Synopsys is clearly a customer-oriented culture. We have enjoyed working with Synopsys and wish you another twenty great years!

Sincerely
