

Jan Collinson

People and Workplace Resources Officer

People. Passion. Performance. This is the banner under which Jan leads Synopsys' People and Workplace Resources team. Identifying the right talent—with that spark of curiosity and passion, capable of addressing the world's toughest technical challenges—that's our mission. Jan's commitment to Synopsys has spanned two decades and resulted in three distinct careers: Facilities management, Real Estate management, and People management.

Having joined Synopsys in 1990, she has played key roles in talent strategy development, acquisition integration, and deploying critical programs and processes in support of Synopsys employees and their development.

Prior to joining Synopsys, she enjoyed several roles in both start-up and established companies. She received a bachelor's degree from California State University, Fresno (Go Bull Dogs!). Would you like to make an impact—moving technology forward, faster? Check us out in this video, “Welcome to a New World of Innovation.”